The Army Run

The main purpose of different theme-base marathons is to encourage people to exercise. Marathons used to be boring, so people put a theme in it to make it much more fun, in order to attract more people to join the event.

The purpose of The Army Run is to let people know how it feels if you are in army carrying all the heavy equipments out there on the battle field. And all the money that we raise will donate to the family who lost their beloved because of the war.

Before the event begins, there is going to have a body check to make sure that the runner is strong enough. And we will give the equipments which weight 5kg to 15kg to the runners. After everybody is suit up, there will be a brief explanation of how you fight the enemies and how to win.

For how to fight: Since the event is just a marathons, there will be no physical contact between the runners, but there will be some obstacles and tough situation for sure, such as running over the muddy road, or entering enemies bases to get supply within time.

For how to win: All you need to do is reaching the destination, because when you<sup>are</sup> really out there experiencing the matter of life and death, the only thing that keep you survive is the desire of living, so as long as you are not giving up, you can be the winner.

And even more, you can always help the others, it is legal to help others carrying their equipments. But make sure you don't lose any equipments when reaching the end.

You have to have the exact same amount of equipment as you start when reaching the end, or else you will be considered cheating.
