

As Free As Feeling the Sunshine

There is no denying that making plans is really essential. However, there are quite a many people not making plans. As for me, I prefer making plans for what I want to do a day, a week or even a month. The reason that I would like to make plans is that as long as I make plans in advance, I will feel at ease before the activities I join. In addition, I will feel things go smoothly when I join activities because there won't too many accidents or obstacle to hinder me from joining activities.

On the other hand, if I don't make plans in advance, I will feel really bewildered. Many people sometimes think that you just do what you want and what you think. They feel that making plans is wasting time. However, I think that not making plans beforehand will definitely make me feel a sense of unsafety. I don't know whether there will be any unpredictable situation happens, so I have to be careful all the time. It will surely let me nervous!

Take me for an example, every time I have the activities with my friend, I will make plans and follow my plans. Also, the plan doesn't mean that it is unchangeable, instead, my plan is flexible. It can be changed with the time and location, in this way, my activities go well and no obstacle or any accident that prevent us from attending activities.

There is also a converse example. I remembered that one time I just didn't want to make plans, because I was exhausted and my friends did not want to make plans for the activity. The activity we joined was hiking in a small mountain. Therefore, although there was no plan, we still went hiking. Nevertheless, the accident happened. During our hiking, we were lost, and we didn't know the direction. What was even worse, we didn't bring the compass with us. As first, we thought that maybe we were going to be dead. Hopefully, we had cookies with us, so we just sat besides the trees and are the cookies. We didn't have anything useful in our bags but cookies. All we could do was wait. At last, somebody passed and gave us the direction to go down the mountain. I regretted that I didn't make plans in advance, and since then I make plans in advance.

To sum up, I think making plans is especially important. Without plans, our activities won't go well. As for me, I believe that making plans is just like lying on the tree and feeling the sunshine. It's definitely as comfortable as breathe in fresh air. Feeling the sunshine is surely at ease, so is making plans beforehand. It can make you feeling free! You won't be restricted by unexpected accidents.
